

Nurture principle- The importance of nurture for the development of wellbeing

St Andrews 'child talk'- We listen and support each other.

As I hope you have seen over the course of the last few newsletters, St Andrews puts a huge emphasis on the importance of nurture as a whole school approach. We look at the whole child not just how they are doing academically and we have a graduated nurture approach to support all children. The 6 principles run through everything we do as a school and we know that early identification of any concerns is vitally important to support children and families. Every child in the whole school is profiled using the Boxall profile so that we can see if there are any underlying concerns for children and to ensure no child is missed. Once concerns are identified we put in nurturing interventions that are ran by Mrs Mayo in the Nest. The Haven is another intervention for children that we feel will benefit from the support of a nurture group.

The Graduated Approach to Nurture

